

AirMed Compliance Documents for Health Canada Cannabis License Applicants

The Cannabis Act requires that license applicants provide information on how they expect to meet certain compliance requirements. For applicants who expect to use AirMed to help meet compliance, we provide two comprehensive documents designed for submission with license applications. As these documents contain proprietary information, an applicant must purchase them from AirMed Canada Systems Inc.

AirMed Record Keeping Compliance

This document provides an overview of how AirMed provides support to enable a licensed producer to be compliant with the record keeping & reporting requirements of the Cannabis Act and Regulations (CAR) and the former Canadian Access to Cannabis for Medical Purposes Regulations (ACMPR). This document is intended to assist compliance auditors and internal compliance leaders in assessing readiness in relation to ACMPR requirements, CAR requirements, and security and privacy standards.

The documentation covers both the CAR and the ACMPR requirements as the ACMPR standards are still referenced for some record-keeping requirements and is more specific in some instances. Where applicable, we have provided the more specific information and include details on how the electronic records are maintained.

AirMed Good Practices Compliance

This document provides an overview of how AirMed provides support to enable a licensed producer to be compliant with the good practices requirements of the Cannabis Act and Regulations (CAR) and the former Canadian Access to Cannabis for Medical Purposes Regulations (ACMPR). This is intended to assist compliance auditors and internal compliance leaders in assessing readiness in relation to ACMPR requirements, CAR requirements, and security and privacy standards. The documentation covers both the CAR and the ACMPR requirements as the ACMPR standards are still referenced for some good practice requirements and is more specific in some instances.

For more information or to purchase our compliance documents, please call 1-877-313-2442 or email info@airmed.ca

